

HERGÉ
THE ADVENTURES OF TINTIN

THE CALCULUS AFFAIR

MAGNET

MAGNET

THE CALCULUS AFFAIR

What shall I do, sir? Shall I ... Shall I open it?

Yes, Nestor.

Ah! At last!

Hey! You there... Who d'you think you are?

Billions of blue blistering barnacles! That's a fine way to introduce yourself. And what d'you want here, anyway?

That's a long story, old boy...

Ah, the lights!

Yes, quite a story... I was driving along when, crack!... my wind-screen shattered, and all the other windows as well. In that down-pour too! So I said to myself: "Jolyon," (that's my name), Jolyon Wagg, of the Rock Bottom Insurance...

How nice!...

"Jolyon", I said to myself, "what are you going to do now?"... Then I saw your house. "I'll shelter there", I said... Here, take my coat, old chap.

You'd better stay here till the rain stops.

Nice little place you've got here. Must say I prefer something more modern, but still...

Oho! had a tiff with the wife, eh?

I... It was probably the lightning.

Lightning?... Ha! ha! ha! And I'll bet you weren't insured, eh, you old rascal? Well what a bit of luck that Jolyon Wagg dropped in: he'll soon fix you up with a neat little policy.

How kind.

Is that whisky you're drinking? You can pour one for me while you're about it. Not that I like the stuff: I'm just thirsty, that's all.

Not bad armchairs, these. I don't stand on ceremony, you know. A bit of a clown, that's me. Never a dull moment with me around, you bet!

I take after my Uncle Anatole; he was a barber, you know. Oh, you should have met him! A proper caution, he was. Always telling stories, make you die of laughing... Like this one... There were two men in a railway carriage, see...

Cheers!

CLING

Did... did you see that?... I was just standing, my glass in my hand, and...

Oho! that's fun!

You think that's funny, eh? Is that all you've got to say?

If you could have seen yourself when that glass blew up! Your face was a scream!

Ha! ha! ha! Reminds me of that story of Uncle Anatole's... Half a mo' while I think of it... Oh yes. There was this man went into a pub, see, and ordered a pint of beer. He was just going to drink it, when...

Blow me! Did... did you see that? ...Just like yours! ... I don't get it!

I think it's fun!

I...er...think the storm has passed. I must be on my way.

I've wasted quite enough time here, anyway. Goodbye!

By the way...er... what about your insurance against lightning?

No thank you, Mr. Wagg. I'm insured against everything under the sun.

Yes, everything. My life's insured against accident; against hailstones, rain, floods, tidal waves and tornadoes; against cholera, 'flu, and colds in the head; moths, weevils and grasshoppers... The whole lot! In fact, sir, the only things I'm not insured against are insurance agents!

You old humbug, you! Well, that's all settled. I'll send you a policy... No, better still, I'll bring it myself. That'll give us a chance to have another chinwag together.

'Bye for now!

He can go to the devil—him, and his insurance, and his Uncle Anatole!

Calm down, Captain. Shouldn't we try to solve the mystery of all this broken glass?

You're right. But still, I...

BANG Listen! Shots!

They came from outside.

There's someone coming ... Oh, it's Professor Calculus, on the way back from his laboratory.

Did you hear those shots?

No, it's over now. The rain has stopped.

Professor, just look at your hat! Excuse me...

Look! A bullet has gone right through it!

Oh! See!... a hole!

I can't understand it at all. The moths never used to make such big holes as these.

Quick, Captain. Let's have a look round the park.

Right. Just let me fetch a torch, and I'll be with you.

Calculus certainly came along this path...

Captain! Snowy's picked up a scent. Come on, let's follow him.

Oh! Look there!

Wooah!

Blistering barnacles! Do you think he's...

No: he's alive. His heart's beating... faintly...

We must send for the police at once.

You stay here while I go and telephone.

Blistering barnacles, what an evening! What an evening!

Oh, sir!... Sir! Something terrible's happened!

In heaven's name, what's the matter now?

Oh, sir! Your beautiful Venetian chandelier, upstairs. Smashed to smithereens, sir!

Later, Nestor, tell me later.

Hello?... Police station?... This is Marlinspike... What? You're Mr. Cutts, the butcher?! Blistering barnacles! I... I beg your pardon. Wrong number.

I'm sure the number's 412...

Hello?... What? No, Madam, I am not Mr. Cutts the butcher!... No Madam!... No Madam!... Fiddle-de-dee, Madam!

SLAM

Marlinspike Police Station... Who is that?... Oh yes, Captain... Yes... Shots you say? Someone injured, in the grounds? Very good, Captain, we'll be with you right away.

...and another vase, sir...

Later, Nestor, later.

Oh, you've come back?

To fetch some water. The poor fellow wants a drink.

He talks with a strong foreign accent... He seems to be badly hurt.

Here we are. You'll soon see...

Great snakes! The wounded man... he's vanished!

I say... are you sure this is the place?

Absolutely certain. Look, the grass is flattened down!

WOOAH WOOAH

WOOAH

OH!

Blistering barnacles! Come out of there, or I'll shoot!

Mercy! Have pity! Please don't kill me! I wouldn't harm a fly... I'm just a simple fellow...

Blistering barnacles, you don't have to tell me that! Just explain what you're doing down there!

Me?... I... I was hiding.

Somebody tried to murder me! I was walking towards my car... then suddenly: Bang! Bang!... So I said to myself, I said, "Jolyon, someone's trying to kill you..."

Wait... I can hear a car. It must be the police.

Are you the one who telephoned?... Good. The doctor and the ambulance are just behind us. Where is the casualty?

Here I am, Mr. Inspector... Jolyon Wagg... That's me...

You've been shot?

Me? No.

But didn't you report that you'd found a wounded man?

Well, we did, but now he's vanished.

Then why were you pretending to be the victim?

But I am, Mr. Inspector; I'm the victim of an attack; I was shot at. So I said to myself, "Jolyon," I said...

They weren't firing at him, sergeant, but the shots must have whistled past him. In fact one went through Calculus's hat.

And who, pray, is Calculus?

Calculus? He's a friend of mine. He came back to the hole with a house in his hat... No, I mean... Anyway, Tintin told me...

And who is Tintin?

Tintin? But this is Tintin! Here...

Hey, now where's he gone?

Go on, Snowy! Seek it out!

The wounded man got away through this hole in the hedge.

You've lost the scent, eh Snowy? I can guess why.

He was picked up by a car waiting here for him. There's nothing to be done. Come on, let's go back to the other.

... You mean the glass just broke by itself?

By itself, yes sergeant! And then...

Where have you sprung from?

Snowy picked up a scent. But it didn't lead anywhere.

There's nothing more we can do here. We'd better go back to the house; we can talk things over more easily there.

Yes, this case looks a hopeless muddle to me.

Next morning...

...TIN... BLOP... BLUB ...PLOS

Blub... blub... blub...

Why? What's up, Captain?

There... in the... Blub...

Wait a minute. Rinse your mouth out first. I'll bring you a glass of water.

Hey, Snowy, be quiet. What are you howling for?

CLING

You... you... blub... you see! We're, we're bewitched, I tell you... We're bewitched!

And an hour later

Blistering barnacles, I don't know about you Tintin, but all this carry-on is beginning to get on my nerves.

Yes, ever since yesterday there's been a strange feeling about the house.

YOW-OW-OW... YOW-OW-OOOW..

Let's go and see. That sounded like a smash on the road.

?

!

MILCO

5431 P

I... I don't know how it happened. I was driving along as usual... Suddenly, just as I passed your gate, crash! bang!... There was a terrible noise... and look what happened... It's got me beat...

Well, what do you make of it? It's exactly what happened to that creature, Jolyon Wagg.

It's fantastic.

TSSII-I-I-I-I-I-I-I-I-I

Look out!

Just look at that horde of rubber-necks! They can hardly wait to see the rest of my windows smashed to bits!

No doubt. But somehow I think they are going to be disappointed.

What do you mean?

It's just a thought... By the way, I know Calculus hates anyone going into his laboratory, but I'd rather like to have a look round in there. Have you got his key?

Yes... but what's the idea!

Well, I've been thinking about this business, and one thing struck me; the glass-breaking only occurred when Calculus was out; or, to be more accurate, when he was in his laboratory. And since he left for Geneva yesterday, nothing more has happened.

In a nutshell, you suggest our friend Cuthbert's responsible for all those incidents? But that's ridiculous!

I'm not suggesting anything, Captain. I'm simply trying to work it out.

Sniff... sniff...

I say, Captain, can you smell anything?

Sniff... Sniff...

It's just... sniff... tobacco, that's all.

Yes, but Calculus doesn't smoke.

Blistering barnacles, that's quite right!

Stop him, Captain!

Whoa there, my fine friend!

Too late, confound it! He's got away!

Hello, what's this on the floor?

It's no use following him: he's disappeared ... But look what fell out of his pocket when Snowy ripped it.

A packet of cigarettes and an ignition key. Well, we know something about him—and I know something else. He's got a punch like the kick of a mule!

Poor Captain!

And there's another thing. Look!

Broken glass! Blistering barnacles, you were right. It's certainly Calculus who...

HANDS UP!

?

Ha! ha! ha! ha! ... Fooled you properly that time, didn't I, my hearties?

I... You... Billions of blue blistering barnacles! ... I'll...

Ha! ha! ... "Hands Up!" ... the old gag never fails!

Now then, this'll cheer you up: I've brought your insurance proposal.

I say Captain, look what's written here in pencil, on this cigarette packet.

What is it?

By thunder, that's the hotel in Geneva where Cuthbert usually stays.

Exactly.

Captain, something tells me the Professor's in danger there in Geneva. I'm going over to join him.

Cursh it! Whereshat paper got itself to?

And I suppose you think I'll let you go alone. Nonsense! I'm coming with you!

Right.

Here it ish!

Come on! To Geneva!

And the same day...

Hello... Hotel Cornavin?... Herr Szhrinkoff, please... Thank you... Hello, Stefan?... Yes, it's me... Look, you'd better get a move on. His friends have just left by air for Geneva.

3.30 p.m., at Cointrin Airport, Geneva...

O.K., I get it: if they're here, we buzz off to Geneva and wait for them at Cornavin Station, at the Swissair bus terminal.

Three-quarters of an hour later, at Cornavin Station...

Here they come... You barge into them and push them around; they'll get angry, there'll be a fight... All to gain time...

Bah! Foiled!
A gendarme...

Ah, there's a gendarme. We'll ask him.

Hotel Cornavin?
You'll find it just across the road.

Thank you.

Is Professor Calculus
staying here, please?

Professor Calculus?
Yes, sir. His key is not on the board, so he must be in his room.

Phew, what a relief!
Please tell him Captain Haddock and Tintin are here.

Certainly,
sir.

What's up?

It's very odd... he isn't answering. Yet he should be in his room.

Perhaps he can't hear. We'd better go up. What number is his room, please?

Number 122, fourth floor. The lift is on your left.

Thank you. We'll leave our luggage here.

Fourth floor, please.

Certainly, sir.

Blistering barnacles, I know he's deaf... but all the same...

Supposing he's not in his room; supposing something's happened to him...

Not in his room, sir? Then his key should be here.

Great snakes! But there it is!

You're right... He must have gone out while my back was turned... I'm terribly sorry, sir.

You don't know where he might have gone?

Wait... I've got it. This morning Professor Calculus asked me for the time of trains to Nyon. I remember now: he said he'd take the 4:40. If you hurry you'll still catch him at the station.

Good. Thank you.

Look out! Here they come.

We have exactly seven minutes.

Billions of blue blistering barnacles! All because of that Balkan beetle... I can't think why I don't go back...

That's a good idea; we'll go back.

I'm going to have a few words with that...

No you won't! We've other things to attend to.

Did Professor Calculus make any telephone calls after his arrival?... One moment, please; I'll inquire.

Hello, switchboard. Has No. 122 made any outside calls since he arrived? No. 122, yes... To Nyon 9. 51. 03... Twice?... Thank you very much.

Nyon 9. 51. 03.

Hello, inquiries? Could you please give me the name and address of the subscriber at Nyon 9.51.03. Yes, I'll hold on...

Hello, yes... Topolino, Alfredo... 57 A, route de Saint-Cergue, Nyon... Thank you very much.

Could you take us to Nyon? 57A, route de Saint-Cergue.

O.K., sir.

Did you notice, Captain, that the chap we surprised in Calculus's laboratory and the one who tripped you up were wearing the same sort of raincoat?

Maybe...

Go on, Stefan. Overtake them!

GE 7051

Good. Now then, a little swerve, and jam on the brakes... hard!

Wham!

?

Crumbs!... What's happening?... We're skidding...
HELP!..HELP!...HELP!

I saw it all! The roadhogs! They swerved deliberately. If they'd wanted to push you into the lake they couldn't have done it better.

Thank goodness... Look here, there's something I must ask you to do for me. Would someone please take us on to Nyon? It's terribly urgent. We'll leave our names with you, to give to the police.

Half an hour later...

Here we are, gentlemen. This is Nyon. To reach route de Saint-Cergue you go through the tunnel and turn right. Good. Thank you very much.

A quarter of an hour later...

To sum up. Last Thursday the first windows and glasses were broken.

And it's no joke. Imagine: you're holding a glass in your hand and suddenly...

Who is Boris?

Boris? He's my servant. He smokes very little, and only those cigarettes. He gets them direct from Borduria.

From Borduria?... Boris is a Bordurian?... Where is he?

He left for home yesterday evening. They sent a telegram. His mother has just been taken ill.

Oho! It's '53!

I think I'm beginning to understand. Yes... But what's your story, Professor?

Well, it's like this. About a month ago I had the first letter from Calculus.

Your wine has rare distinction.

He wrote to say that he was on the verge of a sensational discovery, in the field of ultrasonics. As I am a specialist in that subject, he sought my advice. Last week another letter arrived... He had succeeded.

But it seems that the consequences of his invention so alarmed him that he wished to talk to me. I arranged to see him today.

Er... This bottle was intended for him?

Exactly. But help yourself if you feel like it. ... This afternoon Calculus arrived, a little earlier than I expected, and we began to chat.

Then I bent down to pick up some papers. I looked up, and there was Calculus, brandishing a cosh... Then I came to in the cellar, bound and gagged.

I've got it!

Oh, sorry!...

Not at all!

Do you know this man?

Never seen him. Who is he?

Calculus! The one and only Calculus! So it wasn't he who knocked you out; it was someone else, masquerading as the Professor. Meanwhile the real Calculus arrived...

You're sure the timing mechanism hasn't stopped?

Don't panic! Only a few seconds to go...

And Calculus did come here; his umbrella proves that... He was met by the man who knocked you out, and then pretended to be you.

Good health, Professor!

That's how it must have happened...

Up she goes! That's got rid of the whole bunch at one stroke!

A few minutes later...

Help! Help!
We're under here!

Are you hurt?

Don't know...
Don't think so...
But be careful.

There's enough damage been done already, without smashing this bottle!

But hurry up! There were three of us in the house, and a dog.

There!... Glug... Glug...

That's it...
Now I can pass out!

Ah, here come the others... Injured?

They're all unconscious.

Were there any casualties?

Three; two looked in very bad shape.

Next morning...

ries ged een the out uff reas om not ver trol
Jay was inst
ser ing ary

Topolino were taken from the wreckage. Fragments of a bomb were found in the debris and foul play is suspected. The police have detained two men found loitering in the vicinity of the crime, questioning passers-by. These two men will appear before the examining magistrate this morning.

Meanwhile speculation is rife as to the motive behind this attack, and every effort is being made to discover why Professor Topolino's house should but just did des ma aga

W flee and Car obs ope exp no nev exp rea sta

Bring in the two men, sergeant.

Very good,
sir.

In you go!

Here we are!

Gentlemen, the statements you made yesterday have been checked and confirmed. You will be released immediately. I must apologise for our mistake.

That's quite all right, Mr. Magistrate. None of this would have happened if our credentials hadn't been stolen... with our luggage.

We're in Swiss disguise while we're searching for our friends Tintin and Haddock. We have important news for them.

You'll find them in the hospital, quite near here.

A little later...

Tintin and Captain Haddock? I'll take you to their room. You're just in time. They're getting ready to leave.

I say, how clean these hospitals are. Just look at the shine on the floors!

ZIIIIIP

?

... Yes, important news. We caught him... the man in the park who was wounded, then vanished. He's Syldavian. But we can't get another thing out of him. He swears he was there "quite by chance".

Quite by chance... I'll bet he was. Thanks all the same. I'm terribly sorry you slipped up... We must be off to the police station. Goodbye for now.

... This is how I see it. Calculus had perfected an ultra-sonic instrument, capable of destroying glass from a distance, glass and - who knows? whole buildings, tanks, ships... In short, a terrible weapon... In a letter to Topolino, Cuthbert described his work.

This letter was discovered by Topolino's servant, a Bordurian called Boris, who tipped off his country's secret service. But the Syldavian espionage got wind of the invention too, and sent an agent to Marlinspike. He stumbled upon his Bordurian rival, who shot him.

So far so good. Then Calculus arrives in Geneva, but we are close behind. And since we make life difficult for spies and kidnappers, they try to eliminate us. Right... The first thing is to find Calculus.

But where can he be? ... Who knows what they have done with poor Cuthbert?

Blue blistering barnacles! ... A lighted cigarette! The fat-headed fire-raisers!

Nit-witted ninepins! Bashibazouks! A "C.D." plate, so do as you like! Certified Diplodocuses, that's what you are!

OH!...

Look at this cigarette, Captain. The same brand... once again!

Thundering typhoons, you're right.

... It was a C.D. car... Diplomatic Corps. That means from an embassy, and most probably the Bordurian Embassy... We must find out where that is. A post office directory will tell us. We'd better go back to Nyon.

There... Bordurian Embassy, "Les Cygnes", Rolle.

Rolle... That's a few miles from Nyon.

Well then, this afternoon we'll reconnoitre. We'll go out to Rolle and spy out the land; and tonight, Captain, we'll go into action!

That night...

Someone's trying to rescue Calculus! Quick, Captain, let's give them a hand!

I'm with you! Come on!

... But how can we tell friends from enemies?

Go for the ugliest ... That won't be difficult - you'll see.

Now which has the ugliest mug? It looks about fifty-fifty...

Tintin! Is it really you? I can't believe my eyes!

It's the thug who knocked me out in Calculus's laboratory, back at Marlinspike... the man with the cigarettes!

Quick, Captain, come on!

Rapp! ... Noh dzem bûthes!

Next please!

Half a mo'... I'm coming...

PCHH

My umbrella! ... My umbrella!

My umbrella!

The Captain... we must wait for the Captain...

Here I come!

The brutes! They've knocked out Tintin!

Gangsters!... Anacoluthons!
... Bashi-bazouks!

We'd better not hang around here, Captain; the others will be back.

We must get under cover, quickly.

There they are. Let's get back to the lawn.

By the whiskers of Kärvi-Tasch!
Those accursed Syldavians have got away with the Professor!

Only one thing to do:
go after them in the helicopter....

Good idea!

We're overhauling them fast.
You can see their wake clearly.

It's them all right, heading towards France!

Blistering barnacles!
Another mosquito, inside this goldfish-bowl!

By the Sceptre of Ottokar! Their helicopter's on our tail!

OH! You monster!
Just you wait...
Where's my spray-gun?

PSCHH

НУККН - НУККН - НУККН

Go on Vladimir,
they're within range.

The gangsters! Blistering barnacles, they're shooting at us!

Quick let's climb a bit higher!

Crumbs! How shall we... Ah! The radio! Captain, the radio. There beside you.

Hello, hello!... S.O.S!... S.O.S!... Hello! Police! Calling the police! ... Hello, police!... Hello!...

Hello, this is SB31 answering... I am an amateur... I am receiving you loud and clear... Please identify yourself.

Hooray! An answer!

Hello SB31... Hello SB31... This is Captain Haddock and I...

What?... No, it's not possible!... Ha! ha! ha! That's a good one!... Ha! ha! It's Captain Haddock!

This is Jolyon Wagg of the Rock Bottom Insurance... Blow me! Fancy meeting you again! So you're another radio-amateur? Ha! ha! ha! That takes the biscuit, as my Uncle Anatole used to say...

Listen, Mr. Wagg. You must warn the police at once. We're in a helicopter flying over the Lake of Geneva, and we're following a motor-boat with Calculus in it. He's been kidnapped...

Ha! ha! ha! You old humbug, you! But you can't catch Jolyon Wagg that easy!... You can't teach your grandmother to suck eggs, you know! By the way, what about your insurance?

Blistering barnacles, shut up about your insurance!... I'm not joking... You must get in touch with both the French and Swiss police... Those thugs must be arrested!

Ha! ha! ha! While I'm about it, would you like me to ring up the Admiralty and get them to send the Home Fleet?... Get away, Haddock!

You ectoplasm, you! Will you or will you not warn the police? And get a move on! The boat's just reached the shore... I can't see it any more; it's hidden by trees... What are they doing? Oh, headlights! I see; they're putting Calculus into a car...

There they go... The boat's just put out again... Thundering typhoons!

You should be a radio-commentator! Anyone'd think it was real! Ha! ha!

Hello, Wagg, hello! We're going after the car now... Listen, I'll buy all the policies you like, but for heaven's sake warn the police!

Oooh!... Look out, over there... LOOK OUT!!

A pylon!
Power
cables!

We just missed them! But blistering barnacles, we're out of control!

Whew! We're safe!

I think we must have trimmed
the treetops.

Ha! ha! ha!
Still keeping up the commentary!
You know, you're an absolute wow at the mike, Captain!

You prize purple
jellyfish, you!
Must I kill myself drumming it into your thick skull? This is no joke!... Now listen to me, Wagg...

Don't bother, Captain; it's too late anyway. Look: the petrol gauge is down to zero.
A bullet must have holed the tank. The only thing we can do is to land on the road in front of the car and force it to stop.

Help!! She's misfiring!

No, the engine's picked up.

Quick! Down on the road!

That's it!

There they are!
BUT... ?!

Thundering typhoons!
They must have a Jack Brabham at the wheel!

That's that. They've slipped through our fingers... And Calculus with them.

Now what'll
we do?

First we'd better clear the road, in case of accidents.

Then continue on foot... and try to hitch-hike.

Ah! A car...
Let's thumb
a lift.

Blackguards!... Egoists!... Nitwits!...
Troglydites!... Polygraphs!...

It's incredible what cads some drivers are. They see you like that, all alone on the road, and whoosh!... they sweep past! Blistering barnacles, what times we live in!

Hey, here comes another.

Beasts!... Autocrats!... Profiteers!
... Fat faces! ...
Tramps!...

There ought to be a law to make those infernal mileage-merchants stop when people signal.

Ah, another. Let's try again.

Bah, they won't stop.
You'll see.

I say, they've stopped.

Oh well, we needn't despair.
There are still a few gentlemen left in the world.

Tintin!... Wait!... STOP!...

?

Quick! Into the wood...

Hurry!... Get down; like me.

Why in that particular puddle?

I say, Captain, what are you doing?

Blistering barnacles, get down! They'll start shooting any moment! Didn't you recognise the black Citroen?

The black Citroen?... No, Captain, you've got it wrong. It was black all right, but it had a French number plate; the other one was Swiss.

Are...are you quite sure?

Absolutely certain. Come on, perhaps they're still there.

But I promise you, my pet, there were two people in the road who signalled to me.

And I say, Jules, that it's time you went to the oculist and ordered stronger glasses.

And on top of it all, you're soaked...

Oh, the sun will soon dry me off.

Hmm! I wouldn't count on it.

If only we had an umbrella!

An umbrella? Captain, what idiots we are. Look!

?

...Yes, and meanwhile poor Calculus is being whisked further and further away!

At last! There's a tobacconist. I'm going to buy an ounce or two.

You go on. I won't be a minute.

tsill!

BANG

HELP!

Oh goodness! How awful! Poor Captain! What a ghastly thing to happen!

Bandit!... Anthropophagus!... Steam-roller!... Highwayman!... Travelling at that speed! I suppose you want to break the sound-barrier? You thundering misguided missile, you!

Bashi-bazouk!... Ectoplasm!

Mamma mia! It was you! ... Basta!... And now why you spitta all over my window?

Presto! Window-wash!

Eccolà!

Excuse me, sir, but could you please help us? We're chasing some car-bandits ... they've kidnapped one of our friends, Professor Calculus, and ...

Madonna!... Uno bandito... we chase? Va bene! You get in my car...

You in good?

O.K.

Billions of blue blistering barnacles! Must you do that? Can't you start off like other people?

Scusi!

I show you... Italian car, Italian driver, the best in the world, no? Avanti! Prestissimo! We catcha him, il povero Professore!

Perhaps we'd better explain. Our friend Calculus has an invention which secret agents from a foreign power are trying to steal. That is why they kidnapped Calculus.

But a rival gang, probably secret agents from another country, grabbed our friend.

Hitch-hikers! Blistering barnacles, there ought to be a law against them!

As I was saying, this second gang snatched our friend from the first lot. We...er... Don't you think we'd better slow down?

Mamma mia!... Whatta is happening? This noise is peculiare. Diavolo! I think now: uno pistone?... Una valvola?

It... it... it's nothing. ... It... it... it's my... my t-t-teeth... ch-ch-ch-chattering...

Olà! You think I drive troppo presto?...

Er... I believe the Captain thinks that you're flying too low...

Ten thousand thundering typhoons! Must you drive like a lunatic?

There it is! That car there! The Chrysler that's just gone through the village.

Blistering barnacles, we'll break our necks, I tell you!

There they are again!

Bene! Bene! We catcha them up!

Thundering typhoons! The level-crossing barrier's closing. We're too late to get through.

ZZINGG ZZINGG

Whew! Thundering typhoons, if we go on like this I'll have a heart attack!

... Now, we give a nice little swerve, so! ...

... We put on the brakes, so! ... Ecco! ... Superbissimo!

That's odd. I can't see Calculus...

By heaven!! What d'you think you're playing at? What do you want?

What do we want? Quite simply: Calculus. Where is he?

Calculus? And what might that be: Calculus? A plant? An animal? A chemical?

You know as well as we do! What have you done with him?

I'd ask you to mind your manners. Once and for all, I've never heard of your Candyfloss! You can see that my chauffeur and I are alone in my car...

What about the boot?

Young man, I could say that the contents of my boot are none of your business: but since I don't wish to be nasty...

There! Now where's your Coelacanth? Inside the spare wheel, I suppose.

Does that satisfy you, Mr. Sherlock Holmes? Or would you like to dismantle my carburettor? No? In that case, get out of the road and let me pass. You've wasted enough of my time already.

Mamma mia! You fool me nicely, yes?... You tella me the big fib, yes? You just wanta to make hitch-hike... and me stupido who believes you! Madonna, how you fool me! Va bene! Now you walk. Addio!

What can have happened? Did we follow the wrong car?... Or did Calculus stay in the motor-boat? ...

GREAT SNAKES!

Hey, what's the matter? Now what's burning you up?

YEOW!

What idiots we are! Under the back seat!

Why?... What?... Which back seat?

It was rather high up... That's where they've hidden poor Calculus! We let ourselves be hoodwinked like a couple of kids. Come on!

Old Calculus has certainly led us a pretty dance around the countryside!

That aeroplane looks as if it's landing. Is there an airfield near here? If that's the case, we're saved.

Come on, let's take this footpath. When we get to the airfield we'll ask if there's a plane available.

What's all this?... No airfield?... It's come down in a meadow.

Look! There, behind those trees!

The Chrysler!!

Er... nothing...
a slight mishap.
But read this;
it's incredible.

Bordurian fighters force down Syldavian plane

SAYS: SPENDING

A Bordurian Air Ministry communiqué reports that a Syldavian aircraft has been intercepted by fighters while flying over Bordurian territory. Despite repeated warnings,

NEW PROTESTS

In an official note the Syldavian Ministry of Foreign Affairs has protested vigorously against "unprovoked aggression by the Bordurian Air Force towards an unarmed Great snakes! This alters everything. I bet that's the plane Calculus was in. Now he's fallen into Bordurian hands again. They never give up, do they?

We don't need them! We're going to Szohôd, in Borduria.

Yes...er... Can we by any chance...

I'm sorry, sir, the flight to Szohöd is fully booked. The last two seats have just been taken. However, if you would care to wait...

... we may have a last-minute cancellation. In that case we can make arrangements for you.

By the whiskers of Kärvi-Tasch! They want to go to Szohód, you can bet your life. But we took the last two seats. I wonder...

All right.

Yes, Marlinspike 421.
Thank you, I'll hold on.

Hello ? ... Hello,
Marlinspike ? Hello,
is that you, Nestor ?
... What ? ... Who's that speaking ? ...

Cutts the butcher speaking... What can I do for you?... Hello?

Hello, operator.
That was the wrong number. I asked for 421...Yes, 421.

Hello? Hello, is that 421? [Is that you, Nestor? This is Captain Haddock. I... Who is that speaking? ... Who?]

Wagg... Jolyon Wagg...
Proper lark this is, eh?
You old humbug, you didn't half give me a laugh with your helicopter chase... What? ...
What am I doing here?

It turned out nice, so I brought the wife for a little visit to your country seat... Yes... Who?... Nestor?... I'll hand you over to him; he's got a good joke to tell you... Hi, Nestor, it's your boss.

Hello... Ah, Nestor,
how are you?... Yes
... No... Perhaps...
And what's your news
at Marlinspike?

WHAT?

I'm afraid it's the truth, sir. The Professor's laboratory has been stripped... Yes, the apparatus too, sir... Absolutely everything... Quite so, last night. Yes, sir, the police came this morning.

Did they find any clues? ... You... Hello? ... What did you say, Nestor?

No, it's me, Wagg. ... Don't worry, old boy; it's better than a slap in the eye with a wet kipper, as my Uncle Anatole used to say. Besides...

Thundering typhoons! Shut up about your Uncle Anatole and put me back to Nestor, or I'll do something desperate!

Right away... You know, your insurance is ready. And you'll see, I've taken care of everything. You've got the lot: theft, fire, hail-storms, air-disasters...

Wagg! Billions of billions blue blistering barnacles! I... hello! ...hello! ...HELLO!

Now I've been cut off!!...

I say, what's the matter now?

What's the matter? It's Calculus's laboratory at Marlinspike! Rifled! emptied! ransacked! Those gangsters have taken all his apparatus...

And when I think they're probably in league with those two Patagonian savages... Hello, they've weighed anchor.

So they have: they've gone.

Excuse me, sir!... Sir!... Sir!...

Someone's just telephoned: we have two vacant seats on the plane for Szohöd... but the coach leaves in five minutes. Will that be...

Thanks, we'll take them.

A few minutes later...

Bon voyage, gentlemen. We're only too delighted to give you our seats...

You're the last, sir. We're just off now.

Right away, François.

Well done Snowy! He's been to fetch Calculus's umbrella.

Crumbs! This doesn't belong to Calculus. Snowy! Where in the world did you pinch this from?

Thundering typhoons! Quick, Tintin, hand me that broly.

Hey, I think you've lost your umbrella! Here it is.

Hello, what's that on my nose?

Oh, it's the bit of sticking-plaster.

It's off now...

Thundering...

...typhoons!

?

Pardon me, but you have something on your hat.

A bit of sticking-plaster.

Now I wonder where that came from?

It's sticky! ...

And it's stuck!

Oh, bother it!

Ah, it's gone.

Well, that's got rid of that!

At Cointrin Airport, 1.40 p.m.

Here we go, on our way to Szohöd... I only hope we find poor Calculus there.

Billions of bilious blue blistering barnacles!

Just look at this confounded sticking-plaster! How did it get itself on to my cap? It's black magic, I tell you!

Meanwhile, in Geneva...

Hello, operator, I want Szohöd 322.18... Yes, Szohöd... What? A delay? But it's urgent. I... Good. Try and hurry things along.

Hello?... Hello?... Yes, I can hear you. CRACKLE... FRRT... Hello, Szohöd? Hello, I... FRRT... Hello?

2.17 p.m.

2.35 p.m.

Hello? Yes, I can hear you... Hello?... GLOUP... CRR... Will you... Hello?... What?... Ah, it's you, Szhrinkoff. Amaïh... CRRR... Hello?

2.52 p.m.

3.03 p.m.

Hello?... FRRWT... Hello, I can't hear you CLACK... What?... FRRT... CRRACK... Can't you speak up?... What?

3.48 p.m.

Yes, Haddock. A sort of sea-dog with a beard... CLACK... BZZ... Beard... HEEP... No, beard... GRR... He has a beard!... XWUUI... XWUUI... Yes... beard!

4.30 p.m.

Hello! CRACK... Yes, I've got it... CRACK... FRR-RRT... By the whiskers of Kürvi-Tasch, what a line!... Captain Haddock and Tintin: O.K., O.K. I'll warn the airport control at once... Amaïh!

Hello, airport police here... Amaïh Kürvi-Tasch, sir! The plane from Geneva? It's just in... What?... What names?

BIANCA CASTAFIORE !!!

Did you see? That was Signora Bianca Castafiore, the Milanese nightingale. She's singing at the Szohöd Opera. If you wish, we will go to hear her one evening: she is sublime as Marguerite, in "Faust".

Oh yes...

Here are the keys. We will escort you to your rooms.

This is yours, Mänhir Captain. I hope you will be comfortable.

Yours is a little further down: unfortunately there were no adjoining rooms.

Here you are, Mänhir Tintin. We will come and fetch you for dinner, in an hour. If you need us before then, don't hesitate to ring: we're entirely at your service.

Thank you, gentlemen.

We're prisoners all right, Snowy, and no mistake about it. The fact that it's a gilded cage doesn't make any difference.

Golly! The lap of luxury!

RRING RRING

Hello?... Oh, it's you, Captain... What?

Blistering barnacles, I said that at the first opportunity we'll ditch those two coleoptera! That's agreed, isn't it?

I...er... Oh yes. You're referring to those two butterflies you caught by the lake, in Geneva. But those aren't coleoptera, Captain, they're lepidoptera.

What are you jabbering about? Lepidoptera? Lepidoptera to you, too! I... Hello?... Hello?...

Crumbs! How can I make him understand that our telephone is bound to be tapped?

RRING RRING

Hello?... Yes... Yes... We were cut off, I... er... Don't worry about the butterflies, Captain...

Let's talk about the simply wonderful hospitality of this exquisite country. What good taste! What tact! And then their... um... their courtesy. And above all their... how shall I put it? their friendliness. Friendliness which is entirely... er... friendly.... Um...

You... But... What... Let... But... Look here... I... Blister... Thunder...

Keep on recording. This could be interesting.

Ten thousand thundering typhoons!... Now I'm going to chuck you out of the window!

What?... No, blistering barnacles! It's that thundering bit of sticking plaster. It's following me about!

Well, good luck. I'll leave you to sort things out together. But don't forget, we go down to dinner in an hour.

An hour later...

Captain, I propose we crack a bottle of champagne in honour of these gentlemen.

Champagne?! Champagne for this gang?...

Oh, poor Captain! It must be your rheumatism. Well, there's nothing like champagne for curing that. Will you call the wine-waiter?

Gentlemen, a toast to Borduria and her glorious ruler, Marshal Kürvi-Tasch!

Amai'h Kürvi-Tasch!

Amai'h Kürvi-Tasch!

An hour later...

I say, they're having quite a party at table seven. That's their fourth bottle!

Ha! ha! I'm no fool!... You want to make us tight... To find out where... hic... Professor Calculus is... Hic... But you won't learn a thing. We'll shut up like trams... No, like prams... like lambs... no, like clams.

Don't let's worry about Calculus. He'll have to shift for himself.

That's right! Hic... Don't let's worry. Anyway... hic... I don't know anything. Honestly... It's Sponsz... hic... the Chief of the "ZEP"... our secret pol... hic... he's the only one who knows... And Calculus...

Good... good. Let's forget silly old Calculus. It's time for bed.

Will you take us right up to our rooms?

Hic...

I... hic... I'll stay in the corridor.

Fine... Good idea!

O.K. Mine's locked in your room.

And mine in yours.

THUMP THUMP THUMP THUMP

Just look, there's Colonel Sponsz, the Chief of Police.

So it is ... Colonel Sponsz!

Sponsz, here! ... And Calculus's fate depends on that man! Little does he know that he and his two henchmen passed within a yard of us!

RRRRRRRRRING

It's the end of the interval. Shall we push off? ...

I think it's better to wait till the end of the show. Then we can leave with the crowd.

An hour later...

It's hopeless! ... The exits are stiff with policemen. Let's try to slip out through the stage door.

Why, look who's here! It's Tintin!

Hello, my dear young friend. How delightful to see you here.

Aha, you little Flatterer, so you've come to congratulate me, with this... this fisherman ... Mr? ... Mr? ...

Er... Hoddack... er... Haddock... Excuse me, Haddock.

Come into my dressing-room... Yes, yes... I can't leave my admirers in the passage... I've put on Marguerite's prettiest gown for you... Come along in

You heard it? ... Such a success, wasn't it? ... One of the greatest triumphs of my career... What applause... especially for the Jewel Song... They were in ecstasies, weren't they, Mr. Paddock?

Haddock, Madam!

RAT TAT TAT

Again? Ah, they won't leave me alone for a moment! ... Oh well... Come in!

Signora, it's Colonel Sponsz, the Chief of Police. He wishes to pay his respects to you.

But of course! Show him in, girl ...

Just a minute, Signora!... The Colonel... Listen, I'll explain everything later... but at all costs he mustn't find us here!

Dio!... What shall we do?

Irma, wait a moment!... Quick! Hide in my wardrobe, behind this curtain.

There... Show the Colonel in, Irmaa ♪ ...

I am deeply honoured, Ma'am to... to find myself in the presence of the celebrated singer who... er... who ...

Fie, Colonel! You make me blush!

But do please sit down.

You are too kind...

Oh, forgive me!... I've sat on something... It's a naval officer's cap. ...

Blistering barnacles! My cap!

I... Oh yes!... Er... it belongs to the tenor who sings in "Madame Butterfly"... He forgot it yesterday... But do take off your coat, Colonel.

With pleasure, Ma'am.

Take the Colonel's coat, please, Irmaa ♪ ...

Now Irma, bring the champagne... It's an old habit of mine, Colonel: champagne after each performance. You'll take a glass with me?

I fear I intrude, Ma'am.

Not at all, not at all. Come, Colonel, make yourself useful... You may open the bottle.

But of course, Ma'am. Your wish is my command.

RAT TAT TAT

Come in.

Oh! Excuse me, Colonel... I... We were ordered to search the Opera House from top to bottom... For those two foreigners...

Is that so?

I suppose you think you'll find them in here, you dunderheaded nitwits! Go on, get out! About turn, before I explode!

POP

Please excuse those num-skulls, Ma'am. They're hunting for two spies...

Oh, do tell me about them, Colonel, I adore spy-stories!... Your health, Colonel.

Spies! Us! Barefaced liar

Your health, Ma'am... Well, it's this way: our secret service have managed to... to "invite" to Borduria a foreign professor, originator of a sensational discovery. It concerns a secret weapon. Once this has been perfected, it will give us world supremacy.

Oh, but that's simply wonderful!

Yes, but the perfecting of it depends upon the professor. And up till now he refuses to give us his detail drawings. His reason: he doesn't want his invention used for warlike purposes... I ask you!

These Professors! Always wanting the moon!

Ha! ha! You don't know how true that is! But just now he's on the earth! Between ourselves, he's in the fortress of Bakhine. And by the whiskers of Kürvi-Tasch, he'll stay there till he decides to give up the plans!

Oh, I'm sure he will in the end.

I hope so, for his sake! Anyway, I have a signed order for his release in my coat pocket. Tomorrow he'll have to choose: either he gives up his plans, or he'll never be heard of again.

And supposing he does give up his plans, Colonel. What happens when he gets home, and tells all?

Ha! ha! I've foreseen that. If we set the professor free, it will be in the presence of two representatives of the International Red Cross. He'll have to declare in front of them that he came to Borduria of his own free will, to offer us his plans... I have passes for these two representatives in my coat, too.

How clever of you, Colonel!... Brilliant!

Oh, just part of my job, Ma'am... But I am gossiping, and time passes... If I may dare to presume... My wife is giving a small party for some friends tonight... and it would give us much pleasure if you would agree to come, just as you are, and sing for us.

But of course... Irmaa... The Colonel's coat please, and mine.

Next morning, at the fortress of Bakhine...

I see. Colonel Sponsz has sent you to take charge of the professor. Your papers look in order to me, and the order of release... However...

... Better safe than sorry. I'd better check that everything's all right. Will you excuse me?...

But... but of course!

D-d-do!

Hello, ZEP?... This is the commandant at Bakhine, Major Kardouk. Would you put me through to Colonel Sponsz?

Hello?... What?... Oh, he's not in yet... Who is that?... His secretary?... In that case, perhaps you can help me...

Oh yes. Two representatives from the International Red Cross... Their passes? Quite all right, Major, I made them out myself. And the order for release? Yes, Major, that's quite all right too; the colonel signed it yesterday morning. Yes. Ama'h!

Well, gentlemen, everything's perfectly in order. I'll send for Professor Calculus.

A moment later...

Ah! the joy... ♪ popom-pom... ♪ pompity pom... pom ♪

Here comes the chief. He sounds in good form this morning.

Ama'h! Kavitch... What's the news?... Any trace of Calculus's friends?

Nothing at all, Colonel. Not a sign of them.

That's tiresome... Very tiresome. I wonder where those two artful dodgers managed to hide... Nothing else, besides that?

Nothing at all, sir.

Oh yes... Major Kardouk rang up.

Kardouk? That old bore! And what did he want this time?

He wanted to know if the order you signed releasing Professor Calculus was official.

By the whiskers of Kūrvi-Tasch! When a document bears my signature, is it or is it not official?

Yes, Colonel. That's exactly what I told him, sir...

You... you did say the order releasing Professor Calculus?

Why... yes, Colonel...

The papers!... It's treason!... They've been stolen!

RRRING

Hello!... Yes, it's me... Ama'h! Colo... What?... Professor Calcu... But sir, I...

WHAT?... Their car's just gone? By all the hairs in the whiskers of Kūrvi-Tasch, if you don't get them back... I'll have you shot!

Yes, it's me, Haddock!... And there's Tintin, driving us to safety.

I'll tell you the whole story. The biggest joke is that Colonel Sponsz himself provided the means of your escape!... Magnificent, eh? And luckily it all happened at the Opera House; it only took a jiffy to find all we needed for disguises! Quite something, eh?

And my umbrella?

Yes, but don't start counting your chickens... It's two hours by car to the frontier, and if our little bluff is discovered before we're across...

CRACK
CRACK

They've raised the alarm! That's bad...

What did I tell you? Motor bikes!

Quick, Captain. Unclick the hood at the back. When you've done that, I'll let go at the front...

One!

Two! They're both down in the daisies!

Now, Captain; we were talking about my umbrella...

Saved for the moment; but I've a feeling that was only the first round...

OH!... How right I was!... Look there, a tank blocking the road!... Jam on the brakes!

We're skidding!

HELP!...HELP!

By the whiskers of Kürvi-Tasch,
they came a cropper!

If they're underneath that lot, there's not very much to be done...

BROOMM

A chance in a million! If we hadn't been thrown clear of the car...

Poor old Calculus is fearfully groggy... I say, Tintin, watch out! You'll have us in the ditch again!

I'm doing my best, but...

... I haven't driven a tank
since our Moon trip.

Crumbs!... A road-block!

Too bad! I'll ram it.

What?... What's that you say?...
A tank!... They've taken a tank!!
Blow them up!...
Exterminate
them!... Pulverise them!! ...
I...

Trying to stop us with that kind of ramshackle erection!

Look out, here they come!... Don't miss!... FIRE!

But I'm quite certain that I...
I can't believe it!

You believe what you like,
but I've had all I can take!
O.K. You've been rescued; but your plans can look after themselves. I want to go home
... to a little peace and quiet.

Two days later, at Marlinspike...

Ah, what a relief to be home again!

Thundering typhoons! What's going on here?

DADDY!... DADDY!... There's a great big man with a beard breaking my toys!

Look who's here! The ancient mariner himself! You dropped in just right, you old rascal; we were talking about you.

Billions of blue blistering barnacles! Wagg!
What d'you think you're playing at?

Me?... Well, it turned out nice...
But don't let us disturb you,
old boy; make yourself at home
...

It turned out nice... So I said: "Jolyon," I said, "don't you waste the end of your holiday." And your little place was vacant, so I popped in for a few days
...

... with my little brood.

HERE!... QUICKLY!

It's Calculus; he went straight up to his room.

